

A successful garden to you!

What a pleasure it has been to welcome new and experienced gardeners back to the spring season this year. It's even more fun now that we have reliable warm and sunny weather. We met many new people this year who were learning how to vegetable garden for the first time and we're wishing all of you much success.

While many of you have your gardens all set, this is still a great time to decorate for the 4th of July. Come on in and see our great selection of plants in all areas. Our annuals are 75% off (except for succulents and 4th of July pots) and tropicals are 50% off. If you want something ready-to-go, our annual tubs and hanging baskets are 25% off and you'll find select baskets at an even greater discount.

If you're working on a landscaping project this summer or are planning one for the future please stop by and chat with us about your options. Talk with Johanna, our landscape designer for great help. Her services range from short consults to formal design drawings and site visits.

To help you have more enjoyable evenings and weekends, see us about how to keep the bugs from annoying you and your plants. We have great solutions... even for the natural gardeners.

Avoid Apple Maggot

Tip: be vigilant now about spraying your apple trees, or setting out tangle traps, for apple maggot. These insects come along this time of year and are the culprits of worms in apples.

Scout for Squash Vine Borer

Another tip: Squash and cucumber vines are about to fall over and bloom so this is the time to scout for damage from squash vine borer. We can help you beat these little guys that will kill your vines.

Happy gardening!
